Forty Years of BOBP

Sustaining small-scale fisheries in the Bay of Bengal region

Set up in January 1979 in Chennai, India, the Bay of Bengal Programme (BOBP) has always been ahead of its time. Whether its good boat building, promoting small-scale aquaculture and mariculture, introducing sound fisheries management practices, gender mainstreaming, building capacities of stakeholders at all levels or reducing accidents and fatalities at sea, BOBP has been a trend-setter contributing to sustainable development of fisheries and well-being of fishers in the region.

This calendar provides a glimpse of the contributions of the Organisation in the Bay of Bengal region and pays tribute to the staff who worked in the Organisation, to the fishers and their families for cooperation in carrying out the fieldwork, to the donors for financial contribution and to the member-governments for support and facilitation in implementation of the activities.
